Honoxone, 29th November, 1902. Some mouths ago we drew attention to the very derious injury certain to be inflicted on the trade of China, especially that portion conducted with foreign countries, owing to the want of understanding on the likely to be brought about by the demand Senior Naval Officer, Straits of Malacca, that part of the nations interested of the effects for silver by the Chinese Government, in order to meet the payments-due on account of the indemnities. China, we pointed out, expected to arrive there about the 8th prox. was then practically the only nation continuing to hold on to a silver currency; and we showed how the placing of the large amounts of silver thus required on the already glutted silver markets of the world March would of necessity result in a continual Overture Since that time the silver market has followed the lines shadowed out; and the ordinary rate of exchange has fallen some twenty to twenty-five per cent., with an enormous increase of the difficulties which then were strangling the import trade. Prince Kan-in having notified that he would currency, and we suggested that as a beginning the import duties should be made pay. able in gold; while every means should be taken by removing the impediments that then stood in the way of the export trade, and by encouraging the opening of gold tions were practically scouted on all sides, matter at all.

The Kronstadiski Vicalnik states that the The local merchant would not hear of the Russian orainer Djigit, which is to join the fixing of the duties on a gold basis-which squadron on this station, will not come direct to would, as we pointed out, have the tendency the Far, East, but will call at the Cape and then of automatically removing the unweated go on to Australia. She will make the greater disturbance in the finances on the occasion part of her voyage under sail. of any serious alteration in the rate of exchange-because he feared that the bur-Theex steward of the Sachsen, who deserted his slip here and was arrested in Singapore in connection with the disappearance of some money from on board, has been handed over to the eptain of the Sachsen, which sailed for burden by more than doubling the duties Europe on the 17th inst. to be paid in silver. Possibly even the den on his imports would be increased to an unbearable extent; yet, inconsistently, he was prepared to increase artificially the most bigotted bimetallist would now be disposed to allow that the apparent dropin the importduties brought about by the reduced value of silver has been dearly purchased at the expense of the present very serious condition of the trade. As if this neglect were not sufficient, we sexually find that the Chief Commissioner sent out by the British ance to an export tariff far more burdensome than the present, and that should the hamper the export. It may be quite true that the export, duties of a nation are its own concern, and that primarily it is the first and most direct loser by blocking the export of its superfluous productions; and did China have no engagements abroad, and were she in a position to meet her debts, doubtless the argument would be irrefrag-able. This is however not the case; this has raising the tariff, and it would only have been the act of a financier able to see beyond the point of his nose, to insist that before he permitted himself to enter into such negotiations he would have secured the power necessary to free the general trade from the imminent danger of strangulation which now it has to face. In a wholesome condition of trade China would pay her foreign indebtedness by the export of her superfluous goods, of which she has plenty and to spare, only requiring a little encongement to remove the not unnatural hesitation of her own people, who know but too well from the past that their own Government lays a pitfall in each transaction. The natural, indeed necessary, out-hard sycee; and this sycee has to be exported in bulk to a market where it ceases bankrupt, owing to the drain of silver having exhausted the life-blood of the trade.

When there exists actually in the exchange market a difference of apwards of twenty per cent. between the two adjacent markets of Shanghai and Tientsin it is not difficult to see that affairs have reached a point where wholesome trade is actually

Signor Convertito, a Neapolitan journalist, who recently returned to Rome from a visit to the United States, is publicly arging the intervention of the Government in behalf of Italian immigrants landing in New York, who, he alleges, are thrown into a horribly constructed depot, in which they suffer from hunger and maltreatment. He seems to agree with the account given in Mr. Robert Sheard's The Closed Door. Perhaps Rouman is Government to assist in alleviating the might be applied to for advice in the matter. burdens on commerce has lent his counten-

We take this from the Daily Chronic'e: -. The recent visit of Captain Percy Scott, C.B., M.V.O., to Balmoral has floated a rumour with regard, to the successor to the new rear admiral, the Hon. H. Terrible to succeed Rear-Admiral Limbton whenever thelatter leaves the Victoria and Atbert. Although a renr-idiniral the Hon. H. Lambton is still flying his commodore's burgee on the Royal yacht, and this is explained by the fact that the command of the yachts is only a captain's command, and that the combeen acknowledged in all the proposals for mader is not entitled to an admiral's retinus.

A correspondent (ays the Straits Times) alluding to the fast vanishing British dollar, compares its value with the Indian rupee this :-$100 at present exchange equals Rs. 1221, therefore a dollar equals slightly less than a rupee and a quarter. The effects of this condition is first felt at the governmental discrimination against the Tientsin, which at the moment is hopelessly Standard Oil Company and American petroleum, and solicits attention to an international episode of commerce, the gravity of which extends far beyon I the immediate corporate or fluencial hence involved. Mr. Libby submits the text of a communication he addressed to the Government of India during his visit to Simla last July, in the course of which he says that about two years ago the attention of the Standard Oil Company was specially and frequently called to the possibility of rapidly increasing the petroleum production of Burma; and at a period when our entire commerce east of the possible excessive trading might have led Suez Canal was under careful advisement, the certain that the want of any capacity for Standard Oil Company decided to send several experts to Burma to study the petroleum situsfinance on the part of all the governments tion there from the standpoint of production, transportation, manufacturing, and marketing. As a net outcome of the reports of the said experts, the Standard Oil Company decided to venture a conservative investment in the The German guubost Iltis arrived yesterday, petroleum industry of Barms, not with the intention at the outset to take any part in production, but merely to construct a refinery and purchase cruds oil from the many large or small producers and then allow the enterprise Among the visitors to the Delhi Durbar will to naturally develop.—Lates: Coylon papers state that the U.S. Ambussador has asked for an explanation of the refusal of the Indian whose new book Love and the Soul-Hunters has Government to allow the Standard Oil Company a footing in Burna. Raid followed, as he humorously accompanied by Mr. Mody paid an official visit to H. E. Major-General air Wm. J. Gascoigne. The Royal yacht is expected to leave for Yokohama to-day.

S. ANDREW'S BALL. When the exhausting encourse of the Island, with its dull, soulless days, has passed reluctantly away, the social event in the functions of the coming winter that may be set down as the most pleasurably anticipated is the great Scottish rennion, S Andrew's Ball. It is a pronounced trait in the character of the Scot wherever met, to preserve his nationality, and surely there be no better way of doing this than by setting apart one day in the year for the foregathering of exiles "fras the land of the beath and the heather." The Scot, too, is as careful in the election of his acquaintances as is alleged to be in the expanditure of his bawbeer." On S. Andrew's night, however, that reserve is laid saide, and Sandy, a picturesque figure in his Highland garb, assumes the rote of host, playing it well, too, or S. Andrew's Ball would never be the snoress it is. But the Society has another object besides the fitting -celebration of the annivereary of Scotland's pairon saint. Burns's countrymen love the land of their birth, and it is no diminution in the strength of their affection that impole them to forsake the old country. for other hads over the seas. Fortune, however, is not always kind, and though some have prospered others bear on their lives the imprint of misfortune. To these latter, the playthings of fate, the hand of the Society is extended charity, but it is a tribute to the perseverance of the Scot and his ability to rise superior to the obstacles the world throws in his way that few culls are ever made on the generosity of the Society. He pleds steadily on, socking inspiration in the thought," De il tak' the himmist." It has already been remarked that anticipation of S. Audrew's Ball is always pleasurable. and the feeling was intensified when one arrived on the scene of the fete and viewed the elaborate preparations that had been made for the event, The entire accommodation of the City Hall, where the Ball was held yesterday evening, was, as usual, utilised for the oscasion. Thus, S. Andrews and S. George's Halls were devoted to dancing, the Theatra Royal was converted into a supper room, and the Library was set aside for cards and light refreshments. In the Chumber of Commerce was also a refreshments bar, and in the adjoining Committee Hoom the guests were received. Elaborate as ever was the scheme of decoration, in which no noticeable departure was made for the good and sufficient reason that it defias improvement. It is a difficult task to describe the beauty of a scaus such as that of last night; at the best, one can but onum rate the various designs that went to its perfection, and then it is possible to convey to the mind snything approaching an accurate impression of the spleadour of it ail. The dull white of the pillars in the restibule was relieved by circling bands of greenery, and at the foot they were hidden by clustering plants, which also lived the way up the broad, red-carpeted stairway and dotted the balustrades at brief intervals. Against the wall facing the staircass the Scottish thistle was picked out in little electric lamps, manycoloured and brilliant, the whole being placed in prominent relief upon the Royal Standard. On each side, this beautiful design was flanked This afternoon on the Happy Valley the be the S. Andrew's Cross in silver, and round the walls hung shields of similar device. some of these also carrying a thistle. As the visitor made his way upstairs there rose before him, at the head of the staircase and underneath the illumined thistle, a great mirror in which was reflected an emblazoued trophy of radiating bayonets and the Scottish Shield sormounted by the Royal Crown. Two howitzers on the first landing surrounded by the all prevailing greeney imported an air of impressiveness to a spectacle which derived an additional charm from the presence of a fine royal stag's head on the main landing, snitably draped with flags. These were of all nationalities, and amongst others a significant combination was made of the Japanese colours and the Union Jack. The dates 1847 and 1902 recalled the time that the S. Andrew's Society has been in existence, and the notewortly fact that its inception was crincident with the birth of the Colony. In the various halls and rooms the decorations were continued with equally good results, a certain uniformity being observable in the embelliabment of S George's Hall and S. Andrew's Hall. In the former, the portrait of Her Inte Majesty Queen Victoria stood out in relief from the Royal Standard on one side and the Irish on the other, the latter a pretty compliment to the donor of the portrait, Sir Thomas Jackson. In the B. Andrews Hall the portrait of Scotland's patron saint and that of the late Dake of Edinburgh were similarly treated, whilst round both halls were suspended the shields of the various Boottish counties. An excellent portmit of the late Hon. Phiness Byrie, the guests had provided for their use lounges and of a community. ensy-chairs; here, too, the work of the Decorations Committee was seen to advantage, but never more so perhaps, then in the transformaliberal use had been made of plants and bunting. President and his distinguished guests sat received by the President, Mr. H. W. Robertson, and, preceded by Piper J. E. Sinclair playing Lord Leven's Grand March," ascended to the bill-rooms. When dancing commenced the apectacle was both animated and picturesque. The first item in the dance programme was The Lincers," and to the music provided by the Sherwood Foresters the Ball storted. The following ladies and gentlemen joined the President's set in the opening dance !-

Mr. H. W. Robertson, Lady Blake; H.E. the Governor, Mrs. H. W. Robertson; Admiral Grenfell, Lady Guscoigne; Major-General Sir W. J. Greenigne, Lady Gondman; Sir William M. Goodman, Miss Anderson; Commodere Robinson, Mrs. Playfair, Hon. F. H. May, C.M.G., Mrs. Kidd; Hon. B. thewan, Mrs. Wood.

This year curtailment had been made in the invitations, and from 1,200 in previous years the attendance at last night's function dropped to between 800 and 800. The result was an agreeable lessening of the crowding that sometimes has characterised the annual gathering of members of the Society and dincing was made not only possible, but enjoyable as well. The dancing was spiritedly outered into the music being supplied by the S.F. band and by Piper

SPORTING NOTES.

Last Saturday's cricket was hardly exciting the Club team being too strong for the new regiment, but the finish, when the Club had to make 30 runs in about half as many minutes, was brighter. Why, by the way, did the winners pile on another 10 runs after the match was actually finished? It was distinctly unkind conduct on the part of Lt. Smith toward the Foresters' bowlers. The Foresters, i appears, have not settled down yet, and being weak in numbers at present may be looked to for an improvement on their initial performance. Their first innings in Hongkong was rather inglorious with its eight "ducks." The bowling of Lamble (to whose merits I called attention two weeks ago) was too much for them; in the whole match he took 12 wickets for 59 runs, an excellent performance. Goldring made an unexpected but successful appearance in the first innings as a bowler. The batting does not call for much comment, and the poor scoring even of the winners is not easy to understand. Better things were expected by them when the list of names was published. To-day, after the pleasures and fatigues of the S. Andrew's Ball, a rather stiff engagement awaits the Club in the first match of the season v. The Garrison. Very good teams have been got together.

Many people have noted with interest as well us surprise the well founded remarks which appeared in the report of the Club v. Foresters match in this paper last Monday. As the H.K.C.C. has been making genuine efforts this year to give the " young players who never got a chance" the chance they asked for, it is, to: say the least, disappointing when they will not to Hongkong). Russell's play is as much avail themselves of their opportunities. Of course, the fact that cricket and football are played during the same season at Hongkong no doubt acts prejudicially on the support accorded to both games, for it is hard for players to devote their attention successfully to the two. The scratching of the H.K.C.C. e. H.K.F.C. match on the 15th instant illustrates this better than any words of mine could. Unfortunately we cannot change the Hongkong sensons, and no remedy seems possible.

To-day the Rugby section of the H. K.F.C. play the Navy, and in view of the great improvement manifested recently among the Club backs, especially in the three-quarter line, there should be a fine game. It is rather a pity, to my mind, that there should be so little variety in the programme. Club v. Navy and Club v. part of the Navy are practically the only changes on the card. It is true that it would be hard to suggest many possible games with the limited number of Rugbyists in this Colony and the weakness of the military element at present, but public interest would be stimulated by seeing different sides in the field occasioually.

This afternoon after the Club Rugby match Mrs. Atkinson, wife of the President of the Hougkong Football Club, will present the Sixa-side Challenge Cup and modals to E. D. C. Wolfe's team, the winners of the competition.

The Hockey Club has had a busy week, playing three matches, of which two, viz., against the R.A. and R.G.A. and the Argonaut, being wonthe former match having been played at Kow. loon; while the 10th Bombay Infantry best the Club sasily by 5 goals to love. On this occasion. however, it must be confessed that the Club team was very weak and hardly representative. as Hoper, Solfleet, Carter, and Murphy were all sway. A new recruit for the forward division has been discovered in Barnes, the "Rugger" forward who showed excellent form in the two matches the Club won. There have been II entries received for the new Shield Competition, and a keen struggle for the premier position is expected; matches begin on the 8th December. The Club will run two teams, the 1st XI loing captained by J Hooper and being chosen from the following Goal-C. A. Parker, R.N., or B. W. Grey; backs-L. Murphy, and Lt. Quennell, A.O.D.; balf-backs - C. P. Chater, Major Bewley, RAM.C., Lt. Solleet, R.N., or T. C. Grav forwards-J. Hooper, P. P. J. Wolchouse, R. H. Carter, R.N. O. J. Barnes, Dr. Dartnell, R.N. A. G. Roberts, or R. O. Boggan. The "A" team will probably be captained by T. C. Gray, unless Solfeet, who is at present laid, up with a bad knee, is anable to play, in which case Gray will take his place at half. The matches

MacDonald, Hugh probably merely temporary; however, it is extremely difficult to induce substitutes to come forward on such short notice and it is hoped that in future crows will be put into training and practice in a method that suggests a little more system. A crew of new members has been practising and training assiduously and seems Rennie, Hon. G. W. F. Trefusie, and the Hon. to be doing well, but it is doubtful whether the style adopted by them is likely to become Card Room Committee .- Messrs. P. Dow popular. It has the morit of being extremely vigorous, but it looks as if it were equally exhausting. As for the other crews those stroked by Bingay appear to be woing fairly well but those stroked by Kohler have been prevented by illn as from going out for the last few days and the various Hong orews have disappeared entirely. A note in the Telegraph recently pointed out that the V.R.C. confidently hoped to carry off "the laurels"; if this means all the laurels it seems rather greedy. However it may be that the Boat Clab will be able to give the V.R.C. some sort of a race.

> Mrs. Hastings's performance in steering Iris to victory the other day in the hardicap class race of the Yacht Club was most creditable, and those owners whose ynchts are now going badly should not hesitate to avail themselves of such talent. The third Club race will be sailed to-morrow over course No. 18. To-day is the last day for sending in entries for the Regatta on the 10th and 11th prex.

The sculling championship of Shanghai was won last Saturday by Dr. Denhard, who defented his opponent, Mr. J. D. Smedley, by 16 seconds, taking 7 min. 57 sec. over a mile-and-s-half course. This is of local interest, as Köhler of the Hongkong Boat Club, who won the championship, last year only best Smedley by a length or thereabouts. Denhard may attened the forthcoming Regatta here to sustain his claim to Hongkong footballers will much regret to hear that W. H. Russell, the star full back of the Club's Association toam last year, met with a severe accident immediately after his return to London football and was unable to help the London Onledonians in the first round of the Charity Cup v. Clapton (for which club, by the way, Russell used to play before he came out appreciated in London as it was out here, and is to be hoped that he is by now once more fit for play. Local football sustained a great also sent to the Hongkong Government, to the at $6374, $610, and $6424, the market closing the rebels transported and kept in custody loss when he left for home.

Golfers may be interested in the following suggestion by Mr. Garden Smith in one of the home papers with regard to the now notorious Haskell ball .-- If the alteration of present conress to suit the new ball and the requirements of first class play be impracticable, let the ball for championship play be fixed as a ball of solid guttapercha. This would preserve the status quo so far as first-class play is concerned, and would not interfere with I seer men, who would be quite content to play with rubber balls at the present holes, which they find quite long enough. The situation would then be parallel to what existsin billiards, where important matches are played on match tables with smaller pockets thun those used in ordinary play. There, would be little difficuty in working such an arrangement. In club competitions and private matches any alteration in the relative form of players caused by the new balls will soon be appraised and set right by a revision of handleaps, and for scratch competitions there seems no reason why they should not be confined to men using the gutty ball.

Mr. Stephen Morgan writes: "I have suffered since 1886 with a variouse alcerated leg, and have been under five doctors. I also attended two hospitals, but at one they suggested that I should have my leg off and at the other that I should have the veins leached and tied up. You may gness my feelings, therefore, to find myself now cured by taking 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' and applying 'Clarke's Miraculous Salve,' especially as I have a family of eight children. My leg measured ISin. round against 14in. the other, and part of my work I have done on my knees. The matter toming from my log was as black as soot, but it as now completely healed up, and I am out of agony, a thing not known to me for the past eight years. I must say I think my case a marvellous one. I commenced taking 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' in July, 1898, and the cost has been one small bottle to try the effect first, and finding the proper remedy, then ten large ones, also a few pote of the salve, and my leg not off. I have spent pounds in other remedies, but they have been no good to me. I shall be pleased to answer any questions, and afflicted brothers and sisters can see my leg for themselves. You can make any use of this letter for the public good.

THE SOMALILAND EXPEDITION.

The Somalis are a nomadio race, who have gradually overrun a considerable part of the tr angular "horn of Africa" which projects east- serious feature of a check in desert country is ward between the Gulf of Aden and the Indian Ocean. That they pre good fighting men is proved by the fact that they have driven the warlike Galla tribes to the westward from great tracts of country which they occupied within the last fifty years. Captain H. M. Abud, who, during a long residence at Berbera as British Administrator, had the best opportunity for in the present case Colonel Swayne's report that studying the subject, says :--

The real origin of the Somelis is wrapped in mystery. They themselves say that they are descended from "noble Arabs," who, having had occasion to fly from their own country, landed on the Somali coast and intermerried with the aboriginal inhabitant, many of whose descendants still exist, though they now mingle with the Somalis. The comalis, although nove of them, except a few mullalis, can writ, know their genealogical descent by heart, and, although the custom is beginning to die out, nearly every youngster is made to learn the names of his forefathers in order. Out of at least a thousand experiences, a big expedition and perhaps a elders examined by me while working at the rapidly-constructed light railway to supply it. genealogy of the tribe , none could trace their descent further than twenty or twenty-two generations, and if this number is correct the dawn of the Somali nation would be placed about 1,200 or 1,300 years ago, nearly coinciding with the rise of Mohammed, on whose account the legal claims against him are requested to attend Arabs were obliged to fly from Mecca. This to accounts without delay. Sin Kee Street, coincidence in time is so much in favour of the Somali claim; but, on the other hand, it is difficult to believe that "noble Arabs" would knowingly give their children the barbarous names some of them have. In any tase we must seek away from the true African races for the origin of the Somili, for he bears no trace of the negroid type. t is supposed by some from a resemblance, fancied or real in the auguages, that the Somalis may be allied to the races of Hindustan.

In his own country the Somali is a hunter, a bardsman, a shepherd, a camel-men in the caravans that work down to the coast from . the interior, or a trader in Berbera, Bulhar, and the other coast towns. Many of the Somalis are employed as boatmon and labourers at Aden. Others are to be found as firemen on the P. and O steamers and other liners that use the Rad Sea route. A great part of the Somuli country is desert or surub covered jungle. There is a belt of plain along the shore of the Gulf of Aden, narrow to the east of Barbera, widening out to the west of it. Beyond the plain rise the bold hills that form the northern wall of a platean sloping gradually to the southward. The northern part of this plateau is a waterless desert, known as the Haud.

In 1884 Great Britain assumed the protestorate of Northern Somaliland, In 1897 about 7,000 square miles on the western side of the protectorate were handed over to Abyssinia. Italy claims a protectorate over a strip of coast on the Indian Ocean from near Cape Gardsfui to the mouth of the Juba River.

Various accounts are given of the career of the Somali leader. His name is Abdullah (" the servant of God"), and his parents are said to have belonged to two of the most powerful of the are engraved on the Government Stamp, and Somali tribes. His father was an Ogaden herdsman, his mother a Dolbahanti woman. He was [57] educated as a mullah or religious teacher, made the pilgrimage to Mesca, and there became a disciple of one of the strictest of the Mohamme. dan sects and acquired a great reputation for holiness. From Mecca he went to Aden, where he gathered many followers by his preaching. and was at last expelled for causing an agitation which the authorities feared might have dangerous developments. He went back to his own country and began to preach a holy war against the infidels. It is the existence of the belt of waterless desert known as the Haud that constitutes the chief difficulty of penetrating into Somaliland with an army. Colonel Swayne, whose first experience of Somaliland was as an explorer and hunter of big game, and who knows the country 228 and its people thoroughly, held that to take a force of European or Indian troops across the Hand into the interior would require an enermore supply train and elaborate precautions to ensure an adequate amount of water being available, so that the expedition would have to be on a huge scale, and even then would have little chance of running down the lighter-equipped adherents of the Mullah. He therefore trained the Semali levies with which he has been campaigning for the last two years. They can march and light in a country where regular troops would die.

Last year it was thought that the Mullah's credit was gone, and his power, broken as the result of his defeat by the British levies. But he made his presence felt again in the winter. and this summer a renewed attempt was made to hant him down and disperse his forces. The expedition was about 3,000 strong, with some British officers to lead it; and after it started a reques was made for a stiffening for s of the King's African Rifles. From the base at Burno an advance was made to Behotle, and then the bursuit was continued to the south-eastward.

Brogo, the scene of the last fight reported, is believed to be not a village but a group of wells on the desert track that runs north from Mudug The Mullah could not keep his levies together unless near water, and probably he attacked as our columns was making for the wells. The most that the unencossful party has counted on halting by a well if the day is woo, and the failure to reach it adds tenfold to the difficulty of working back to the watering station last left, without obtaining a renewed supply. The necessity of carrying off the wounded in the face of a savage enemy ailds to the anxi ties of the retreat, and he has lost a number of camels indicates that he may be handicapped in his transport for the wounded and the reserve of water and ammunition. Altogether the situation is very critical. The Somalia may be tempted to save themselves by deserting their white leaders, and help of any kind is far off, for the battle has been fought with the Haud desert behind the adventurous column. But even if Bohotle is reached the peril is not over. No doubt whatever be the result the actual operations the Mullah's power will now have to be broken, and it looks as if this would mean a repetition of our Soudan
